Good morning!

In honor of our short week, today's edition of Provost's Notes is short as well.

I am fortunate to have many good things in my life: good health, great friends, a loving family. Those are the really important things in life, and I could stop there. But the cherry on top is the good fortune to engage in meaningful, life-changing work with people who inspire me. We've built something really special here at OTC. Together. And even though the work is often a really hard uphill climb, we keep at it.

I'm grateful for you, for this place, and for the opportunity we have to give. Wishing you all a great Thanksgiving holiday!
